Dear Comcast,

Thank you very much for this $1,000.00 scholarship. It was an unexpected and happy surprise, and it will not be wasted. I am a filmmaker, and after college I aspire to make films professionally. More specifically, I am skilled with visual effects and cinematography. There are many career options for me to pursue, whether in advertisements or film or television. In any case, I will go to college and apply myself by learning and refining my craft. It's very important that I do what I love, and with your help I will be one step closer to making that happen.

It's no secret that college can be incredibly expensive. That is especially true for me, because I plan on applying to University of Southern California and New York University, two universities known for their price. They are also known for their amazing filmmaking programs, one of the main reasons I am choosing to apply. It will take hard work and a lot of passion on my part, but I am more than happy to push myself if it means I will be able to use my camera for a living. This scholarship is a big help to paying for tuition. Not only does it help me financially, but it helps me mentally, and your money gives me confidence to continue down this path. I am eternally grateful.

Thanks so much,

Jordan Pearson
